

Wow, what an evening! After noticing foot prints around an unoccupied cabin on Trygg Road, Larry Anderson, our neighborhood Watchdog went up to have a look. He could smell propane gas and became concerned. He called me and found out I had a key for the cabin. He called 911 and we then met at the cabin after calling and notifying our Eagles Nest volunteer fire department. Three fire trucks responded quickly. Bright lights on their helmets and gas detection meters in their hands they began checking around. After turning off the valve at the propane tank they proceeded inside to find the gas range had not been totally turned off, leaving a VERY STRONG gas odor in the cabin! They stayed around to air out the cabin. I cannot say enough good things about our fire fighters. I was so impressed with their response time and how professionally they checked things out with safety in mind. Not to mention the potential danger they were dealing with! Our assistant fire chief explained what they had done and offered to talk to the owner in case he had any questions. So, Eagle Nesters, rest assured that you are in good hands.
